Pocketbook Hudson is based in Hudson, NY, and housed in a historic textile factory built in 1885. A place led by curiosity and shaped for care. Here, you'll find beds for sleeping, communal baths, an open-fire restaurant, café and bar, a nightclub, galleries, and a street-level market. You'll also find original architectural details that speak to the present in unexpected ways.

Pocketbook Hudson is a place to be.

LOFT SUITE

Our guest rooms are spacious and lofty with high ceilings that give ample breathing room to cleanse the palette. Stainless steel, scale, and texture sit in deliberate balance with the historic brick and timber building, evoking a kind of unplaceable, uncanny recognition that bridges the past and the future—and making room for handcrafted elements that add warmth and inner-light.
